

Top Agricultural Bloggers

Here are a list of my top agricultural bloggers. They write about their life, their families and their farms. They are listed in no specific order. And, in fact, I am sure I have missed some that I wished I would have added. And if you see someone that is missing? Just add it to the comment section. So grab a cup of coffee, check these ag bloggers/agvocates, engage with them and enjoy!

I knew this was going to happen. There are a few bloggers that I forgot and who NEED to be on my list.

51) Cristen Slings Clark - Food and Swine. Cristen was born and raised as a 6th generation Iowa farm girl with a passion for baking timeless recipes. She is an avid contest cook and baker but most importantly a stay at home Mom with two children. Her husband works in the swine industry and they raise hogs in modern barns and pigs they show in smaller barns and outdoors. She farms with her parents and sister, where they raise corn, soybeans and beef cattle.

52) LaVell Welp Winsor - Growing for Tomorrow. Growing kids, growing crops, learning and growing for tomorrow. As a farm wife, soccer mom (literally), daughter, sister, aunt, friend, taxi driver, consultant, volunteer, cook and bottle washer – life goes at a fast pace. I'd like to share with you how we live on our family farm.

53) Lexi Marek - Beyond the Barn. An Iowa gal, Lexi is a 6th generation farmer's daughter in love with laughing and life on the farm.

54) Holly Spangler - My Generation. Holly writes for Farm Progress and is also involved in a podcast, Confessions of a Farm Wife, with other farm women.

55) Joan Ruskamp - Dust in my Coffee. Faith. Family. Farming. These three words sum up the three most important areas of my life. As a Catholic wife, mother, and cattle feeder, I get to wear many different hats each and every day. This blog is a way for me to share some of my little moments with you.

56) Emily Grace Bryant - Beef and Sweet Tea. This is a blog about a 5th generation beef cattle farm in the Southern United States. It's written by a local Southern woman who married a good looking Midwestern cowboy about as soon as his boots hit the state line to take over his family's farm.

57) Jamie Rhoades - The Uncharted Rhoades. Married to my best friend. Have a great job in a field that I'm passionate about. Get to live in the country and see nothing but crops and cattle out the window. Life is good.

58) Julie Vogts - In Between the Sunsets of Life. A fourth generation farm family on the prairies of Kansas. Where crops are sown and harvested, a daughter is raised, dinner parties are given, and all while serving the Lord.

59) Kaitlyn O'Neal - Becoming Texan. A South Dakota farm girl/Oklahoma country girl who is becoming a full-blown Texan. In March 2014, I followed my heart to Texas and have been learning since that "being Texan" isn't an overnight thing. Here I share my journey and invite you to come along!
